Floorplans

Estimates are the designer's sample and may vary in detail from actual specifications. All room dimensions are approximate and cannot be guaranteed. Fit, dimensions, construction features, and materials are subject to change without notice or obligation. Planning, design, and construction are the designer's sole responsibility. The builder's responsibility is to construct the design as presented and to coordinate the design with the building department and the local building authorities may require change (e.g., Windows, doors, ceilings, and materials). Options indicated are available at additional cost. This contract is for the use of the design for the purpose of a single project only.
